One evening, Peppa and George are finishing their dinner. It is almost bedtime.
But the little piggies are not sleepy.

"Can we play outside for just a tiny bit?"
Peppa asks.

"All right," says Daddy Pig. "But you must come in when we call you for your bath."

Peppa and George go outside to play one last game before bedtime.

"Look, George!" cries Peppa. "Lots of muddy puddles!"

Peppa and George like jumping up and down in muddy puddles.

Peppa! George!" calls Daddy Pig. "Bath time!"
Peppa and George run home in their muddy boots.
Squish! Squash!

"We found the biggest muddy puddle in the world!"
cries Peppa.

"Are you and George feeling sleepy?"
asks Daddy Pig.

"No, Daddy," says Peppa. "We are not even a tiny bit sleepy."

Before bedtime, Peppa and George take their bath.

Peppa likes splashing. George likes splashing, too!

Ho! Ho!

"That's enough splashing," says Daddy Pig. "Let's get you into your pajamas."

"Oh, can't we stay in the bath a little bit longer?"

Peppa asks.

"Bath time is over," says Daddy Pig.

Before going to bed, Peppa and George brush their teeth.

Brush! Brush! Brush!

"Okay, that's enough brushing," says Mummy Pig.

"Oh, but I think our teeth need a little bit more cleaning," says Peppa.

Snort! "When you're in bed, Daddy Pig will read you a story," Mummy tells them.

Peppa and George like stories!
They hurry into their beds.

When Peppa goes to bed, she always has her teddy tucked in with her.

When George goes to bed, he always has Mr. Dinosaur tucked in with him.

"Are you feeling sleepy now?" Daddy Pig asks.
"No, Daddy," Peppa says. "We need lots and lots of stories."

"Daddy will read you one story," says Mummy Pig. "Which story would you like?"

"The red monkey book, please!" says Peppa. Peppa and George like the red monkey book.

So Daddy Pig reads them the story of the red monkey.

"Once upon a time, there was a red monkey. He had all sorts of adventures.

"After every adventure, this red monkey would . . .

... take a bath,

brush his teeth,

and go to sleep."

When Daddy Pig finishes
the story, Peppa and George are fast asleep.

Good night, Peppa! Sweet dreams!
